We cheerfully add Dr. B's Card to our columns, convinced that his good taste and judgment, united to natural skill and ingenuity, aided by an extensive practice of spwards of thirty years, render his services more valuable and reliable than those of any other dentist on the Sound, Coast or Island. Very Cool Indeed. For cool presumption and reckless disregard of facts, we would commend our morning contemporary as having no equal in the newspaper line, so far as out knowledge extends. It has been for months battering away at the STANDARD, and all connected with it, because it has all along contended that Esquimalt would be the terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and that the route of the railway would certainly be via Bute blet and Seymour Narrows, instead of via the Valley of the Fraser or Howe Sound to Burrard Injet. We do not blame our contemporary for preferring the Fraser or Burrard Inlet route to the Bate Inlet route, if it port. really believed the former possessed stronger claims and promised greater commercial advantages than the latter. Neither do we find fault with it, if personal considerations of a pecuniary character had the effect of warping its judgment so far as to cause it to overlook the claims of commerce in its desire to realize personal advantage. All men are said to be more or less liable to have their judgments warped where their personal interests are in volved, and therefore we should never think of discovering in our contemporary an exception to the rule. It is its canting hypocri y we take exception to—its lame attempt to make its readers believe that while it is doing its utmost to discountenance the very ides of making E-quimalt the terminus or of adopting Bute Inlet as the route for the railway, it anxiously hopes for the accomplishment of both the one and the other? It says, in yesterday's issue, "It is now considerably more than a year since Esquimalt was settled upon as the true Pacific terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway," and at the same time reiterates its oft-repeated declaration that "no decision has yet been arrived at as to whether the railway will reach the Pacific by way of Bute Inlet or by the Valley of the Fraser." Our contemporary furnishes an apt illustration of the old adage that if "a man's convinced against his will, he'll bold the same opinion still." It won't believe the Bute Inlet route has been chosen, for no better reason than that it don't want to. It has a weakness for the Valley of the Fraser, and not even an Order in Counc.l, stating that it has been decided that a line of railway be located between the harbor of Esquimalt and Seymour Narrows, is sufficient to disabuse its mind on that point. True, it says "that the railway will come to Esquimalt, we have use. all along believed," and "that it will come by way of Bute Inlet, we also believe;" then why, we would ask, if that be the case, is all this labored effort put forth on this very point, and why should pains be taken to make the public believe that the telegram we published in reference to the settlement of this question was a bogus" one? When it can no longer call in question the fact that Esquimalt will be the terminus, it turns round and says, we "knew that considerably more than a year ago," and when further opposition has be-come utterly futile, it informs its readers that "we have all along believed' Esquimalt would be the terminus, and Bute Inle the route. If this is not a cool admission, we know not what to call it. No one than our contemporary better knows the utter absurdity of there being two termini on this coast for the same railway, and yet that is the only inference that can be drawn from what it says respecting Esquimalt being settled upon as the "true Pacific terminus." If we can believe our contemporary, there is to be a terminus at Burrard inlet, while the terminus is to be at Esquimalt. If such an arrangement could be made to work satisfacall round, we should not be disposed to find fault with it; but the fact is that it is practically impracticable. It would apir the choice lay between Burrard lulet. by way of Howe Sound, and Esquimalt, by Washing and Ironing done Properly way of Bute Inlet, and the Dominion Government have decided in favor of the latter. The order has been issued to locate the line between Esquimalt and Seymour Narrows, and this may be understood as final and conclusive as to the particular route the railway will take. We doubt not several circumstances have conspired to induce the Dominion Government to designate and determine upon this route. First, the line, after it emerges through the Leather Head Pags and strikes British Columbia, will enter upon a vast open country, presenting no engineering difficulties of a serious character until it reaches within a few miles of Bute Inlet; whereas, if it took a more southerly direction with a view to striking Burrard Inlet, it would have to encounter almost insuperable obstacles nearly the entire route, and although in point of distance some few miles would be gained by taking that course, the GUN AND RIFLE MAKER. difference in the cost of construction would more than justify the Government in running an unbroken line through to Esquimalt via Bute Inlet and Seymour Narrows. Secondly, the fact that Vancouver Island, throughout Breech and Muzzle loading Rifles, nearly its entire length, constitutes an almost unbroken coal field, which alone will be worth ten times the cost of the road from the Nar- Colt's, Smith & Wesson's, Sharp's Repeater, rows to Esquimalt, would alone be sufficient to settle the question in favor of that route. Thirdly, there is no guarantee in the world that if Burrard Inlet were chosen, a connection between that point and Nanaimo would be made by terry, and thence by rail to Esquimalt. In a commercial point of view it would be impracticable, the distance over which trains would have to be ferried, between 30 and 40 miles, at all times and in all kinds of weather, being so great as to put any such scheme entirely out of the question, except as a dernier ressort. Fourthly, how-ever well disposed the Dominion Government might have been toward Burrard Inlet prior to the cession of San Juan Island to the Government Street near Pandora. Americans, the loss of that island to Great Britain gave the Americans complete command of the waters connecting Fuca Straits Gentlemen visiting Esquimalt will with the Gulf of Georgia, and therefore completely spoiled Burrard Inlet's chances of ever being made the terminus of the railway CLOBE INN and commercial entrepot of the Dominion on the Pacific. These are some of the reasons which no doubt led to the choice of Bute Inlet as the route for the railway, and we are Wines, Liquors and Cigars, Good Beds, sure their choice will be commended by every really unprejude d and intelligent person who has made this question a matter of study. With reference to Mr. Langevin's telegram that "nothing is settled yet," we have only this to say : When called upon to give an explanation as to what he meant thereby, we have no doubt he will be prepared to give a satisfactory answer. We are neither his spokesman nor apologist, and are therefore under no obligation to answer for him. We have the authority of an Order in Council for saying the question is settled, GROCERIES & PROVISIONS both as regards the terminus and the route but if our contemporary cannot, or will not, believe it, it is quite welcome to enjoy its unbelief and make the most of it. Extraordinary Scientific Discovery.

A correspondent of the Dundee Advertiser writes as follows :- For some time the scienific world has not been startled and rejoiced by any great discovery, but at the present moment we are on the eve of the publication of one of the greatest scientific discoveries o the present age. The happy man who has struck on a new and rich vein, of sceintific truth comes from the Granite City, and is a very distinguished alumnus of the University of Aberdeen. Dr. Ferrier, who was some time ago appointed successor to Dr. Guy in the chair of forensic medicine in King's Col. lege, London, has just crowned the study of ears by a most happy and brilliant series of experiments. About a month ago his plans Fancy Colored Duto, White, Tan and Fancy were so far complete that he was ready to begin bis experiments with the Easter bolidays. Skirts, Cambric Sunshades, Silk Parasols and west to Wakefield, and was amply provided At the Church of England Synod this morning, Archdeacon Lousdell moved, Staple Dry Goods. An itspection of the ing the action of the brain than all the premew goods is invited. Government street, ceding knowledge. Physiology is therefore on the eve of an extraordinary advance. The modus operandi is new and ingenious. The animal to be experimented on is first put under chloroform. The next thing is to clear away the skull and expose the brain. This, it will be understood, is a difficult and delicate operation, but is done, and the animal may live from three bours to four days. All his has been done often enough before, but the difficulty was to get some mode of rousing parts of the brain into activity without injuring the parts. Here Faraday comes in. Such is the way of scientific discoveriesevery step leads to the next. Without Simpson and chloroform the operation could not have been usefully attempted; without Faraday the operation might have been performed a thousand time without leading to any result. The process imployed by Dr. Ferrier is wha s knewn as faracising. After uncovering the brain, he applies the point of an electrode to the conv. lutus of the brain. Its effect is, to excite the functional activity of that part, and thereby to show what its real work is One of the first experiments disclosed the its organs, distinguished by the sure and rigorous test of experiment. Nothing could surpass the interest of those experiments. On the table before you is the dog with its skull removed. All seems, but for the breathing and movement of the brain, an inert mass of dead matter. The doctor applies the ele-LAST NIGHT'S DESPATCHES. ctrode, and presently the tail begins to wag. All else is motionless. Another touch, and its head is erected, another and its mouth opens. Again the magic wand touches the brain, and the animal seems convulsed with fear and r ge, and on the experiments go. Once the divining rod has been discovered, it is comparatively easy for an expert viscator to use it. This discovery, so simple, once it is known, will effect almost a revolution in physiology. Hitherto it has been looked on as an axiom that you cannot experiment with tie brain-that it s too near the seat of life to b : tampered with. Now experiment has been FORT KLAMATH, July 1, via YREKA, July 3. ciled ourselves to a vague and uncertain light The Military Commission appointed to try of observation. It has succeeded in artificially produce epilepsy. It has succeeded in artificially producing epilepsy in a dog. This is a most wonderful part of the discovery, and proves the truth of the conjecture of Dr. Hewlings Jackson that epilepsy arises from a lesion between convolutions of the brain. Dr. Ferrier has also found out the origin of chorea, or St Vitus's dance, and has been able to make his animals show all the symptoms of the disease artificially. He has caused etanus and other peculiar and difficult states of the muscular system. Altogether the discovery opens a new path in the treatment of disease, and cannot fail to produce the most important
